My wife Billie and I both believe that the whole Microsoft trial has been unamerican and a total travesty. We grow up being taught that as Americans the sky is the limit. We are told that hard work, original thinking and attaining goals are the keys to success. Apparently not so if we take the example of the Microsoft affair as an indication of how it works. There isn't a single company in the U.S. that has done more for the American Image than Microsoft, and it is a world-wide perception. They should be rewarded, not punished!!!!
